Iraq's Rebellious Troops Mop Up Armed Reds

U.S. Engineer Reports As Eyewitness

Kassem Stymied In Suicide Try, Then Executed

By WEBB MCKINLEY BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Troops of Iraq's national revolutionary council are mopping up armed Communists cementing their over-all control, travelers said Sunday. Bodies of dead still dot Baghdad streets.

"They have been going after pockets of resistance," said Edward Foley, an engineer from White Plains, N.Y., and Rome, who reached Beirut from Baghdad. "They say there are half a million Communists resisting, but I do not know about that. There is still some shooting, but not too much."

The resistance is centered in the heart of the capital, from where a picture of the body of Premier Abdel Karim Kassem, the executed dictator, was televised Saturday night.

"He looked as if he died smiling," said Peter Morton, an architect from Boston and Rome. "He looked exactly as he did when he was alive."

A thousand miles to the east, a woman alighted from a plane at Tehran with the remark: "I almost fainted when I saw Kassem's head, wet with blood and with his mouth open, on the television screen."

Foley and Morton, who witnessed Kassem's overthrow Friday, said he held out alone in his bomb-scarred Defense Ministry for 11 hours. Then his ammunition ran out.

Other passengers said many guards who fought for Kassem were slain and that he was trying to commit suicide with his last cartridge when the rebel troops seized him.

A United Nations official, who asked that his name be withheld, told newsmen in Tehran he had heard a report 1,000 persons were killed in all and that, on the rebel side alone, 2,000 men were wounded.

Lifting of a ban on outgoing planes was one indication that the new regime—under the presidency of ex-Col. Abdul Salam Mohammed Aref—considers the situation well in hand.

A round-the-clock curfew was eased to permit travel between 6 a.m. and 5 p.m. Trains are going back into operation. Schools were ordered to be reopened Monday.

Messages of diplomatic recognition were reportedly sent from the United Arab Republic, Yemen, Algeria, Kuwait, Morocco, Syria, Saudi Arabia and Jordan.

Sudan and Yugoslavia also recognized the revolutionary regime and authorized sources in London said Britain would do so as soon as she is convinced the regime has effective control of the country.

Dies In Crash, Misses Town

NORWICH, England (AP) — A U.S. Air Force F100 fighter crashed in an open field just outside Norwich Sunday, killing the pilot.

The Air Force identified him as Capt. John W. Welsh, 27, of Battle Creek, Mich.

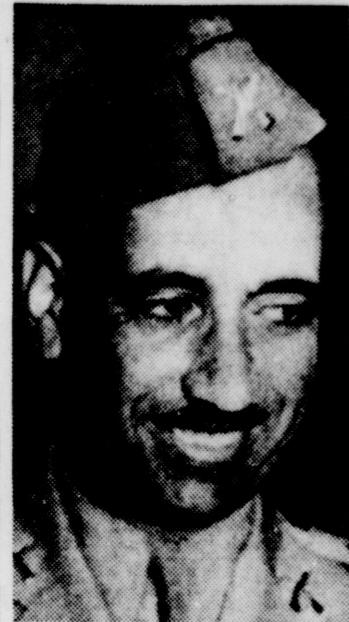

The plane crashed just short of a big housing area. Villagers said if it had come in slightly lower, it would have ploughed through the village center.

They said Welsh stayed at the controls in a probable attempt to land his crippled machine on unused runways of a nearby airfield.

He missed by a few hundred yards.

Many-Death Accidents Kill Over 40

By United Press International

Multiple-death accidents took an awesome toll of lives throughout the nation this weekend. At least 40 of the victims were young persons.

Four sisters drowned and a fifth was rescued when they plunged through thin ice into a pond at Babylon, N.Y., Sunday. Dead were Mary Ann Corridan, 5, and her sisters, Kathleen, 10, Patti, 7, and Louise, 3. Police said Lorraine, 11, was taken to a nearby hospital for treatment for exposure.

Two head-on automobile crashes took five lives each.

Neal Elwood, Ind., a car skidded on a snow-covered road and smashed into a second car, resulting in five deaths. The victims were Mrs. Ocie Leeman, 42, Noblesville, Ind., and three of her children, Sally, 3, Carl, 5, and Henrietta, 17, and Mrs. Miriam Myer, 34, Geneva, Ind. Officers said Mrs. Leeman's car went out of control and smashed into a car driven by Mrs. Myer's husband.

Two other of Mrs. Leeman's children and Myers were hospitalized.

Five persons perished in a two-car crash near Batesland, S.D., Saturday night. Killed were Wallace Nichol, 22, Rapid City, S.D., and Purvin Running Shield, 23, Melvin Holes, 25, William Martin Decker, 31, and Calvin Landreau, 19, all of Batesland.

Three men died in a train-car collision near Clewiston, Fla., Saturday night. They were Gerald Jones, 29, and Herbert J. Tindall, 32, both of Vero Beach, Fla., and Steve Hunter, 47, Fellsmere, Fla.

Michael Stiles, 3, and his sister, Susan, 3, died in a fire Sunday when flames trapped them on the second floor of their home at Portland, Maine.

Ball's appeal came a few hours after a Republican senator had revived the charge that Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev made a missiles deal in the Cuban crisis. A Democratic colleague rebuked him for making such a claim.

Ball, in a television interview criticized "voluntary intelligence-gatherers" who like to make speeches—an obvious reference to congressional critics who have re leased their own reports on Soviet military strength in Cuba.

Police said that at least 35 patients, mostly children, were missing in a two-hour blaze that swept through Manila's San Lazaro Hospital.

But they said it was probable that missing persons had been evacuated to places unknown to the authorities.

Two firemen were injured in the blaze.

Manila Vice Mayor Herminio Astorga, one of the officials at the scene of the fire, said a series of explosions rocked the hospital shortly before the blaze broke out.

Astorga said that the blasts apparently were set off by alcohol kept in the pharmaceutical storage room of the hospital.

Astorga estimated damage to the hospital at $789,000. The fire gutted five buildings and one chapel.

McGill described Arkansas and Mississippi as educational "deserts." He also spoke of what GNA called the "reactionary group" in the United States.

GNA quoted him as saying the group was small and enjoyed the support of wealthy financiers only.

"They will be eradicated at all costs," McGill said according to the report.

Man Gives Up In Death

- Barmaid Dies
- Of Stroke
- After Attack
- Slow Service Apparently Enraged Farmer

BALTIMORE, (AP)—A Southern Maryland gentleman farmer turned himself in to police Sunday after a state-wide alarm was broadcast for his arrest on homicide charges in the caning death of a barmaid.

William D. Zantzinger, 24, walked into Central Police Headquarters around noon, accompanied by his lawyer, Claude Hanley, of Towson.

The 6-foot-1, 200-pound Zantzinger was charged with "assaulting and thereby causing the death of Mrs. Hattie Carroll," who worked as a part-time barmaid at Baltimore's Emerson Hotel.

Zantzinger, clad in a sweater and an open-necked shirt, said nothing as he was placed in jail without bond, pending arraignment Monday.

Mrs. Carroll died early Saturday morning of a stroke after she had been knocked unconscious by a rain of blows about the face and shoulders from a wooden cane.

The 51-year-old mother of 11 children had been serving bar for the posh Spinster's Ball, sponsored by post-debutantes. The ball is a white-tie-and-tails affair held annually for charity.

Police said Zantzinger apparently became enraged because Mrs. Carroll was slow in serving him a drink.

Patrolman Warren Todd said Zantzinger had struck another waitress with the small, novelty-type wood cane and then walked over to Mrs. Carroll and hit her.

Mrs. Carroll died at Mercy Hospital without regaining consciousness.

Zantzinger pleaded innocent early Saturday to the assault charges and was released on $3,600 bond. Minutes after he was released, the homicide warrant for his arrest was issued after word was received that Mrs. Carroll had died.

Hanley posted $103 bond for Mrs. Zantzinger Sunday at police headquarters. Mrs. Zantzinger, the former Jane Elson Duval, 24, of Crofton, Md., also was arrested while the dance was still in progress and charged with disorderly conduct.

Mrs. Zantzinger forfeited $28 collateral when she failed to appear for a hearing Saturday morning before Municipal Court Judge Albert H. Blum.

She is scheduled to appear in court Monday with her husband to face the disorderly conduct charges.

Zantzinger is the son of Richard C. Zantzinger Sr. of West Hatton, Md. The elder Zantzinger is a former member of the Maryland Planning Commission and of the Maryland Legislature.

William Zantzinger owns 600-acre tobacco farm at Mount Victoria in the Southern Maryland county of Charles.

Ohio University Professor Found Guilty

ATHENS OHIO UPI—Defense Attorney Joseph B. Yanity spent the weekend considering whether to appeal the first degree murder with mercy recommendation verdict against former Ohio University professor Gene Isaac Stees.

Stes was convicted of killing his estranged and pregnant wife Helen during a visit at their rural house last Oct. 20. The mercy recommendation saved him from electrocution, but the mandatory life sentence will require him to serve 20 years in prison before he is eligible for parole hearing.

Yanity was not expected to appeal the decision, as he and his client did not claim Stees had not done it. They contended merely that it was not premeditated, in hope of keeping him out of the electric chair.

Yanity said after hearing the verdict that "I'm very grateful. We saved his life." Stees' father, William of Philadelphia, remarked that, "We can't take a chance on an appeal, I don't think."

Judge John Bolin did not set a date for sentencing, preferring to wait until the defense made an official decision. It was expected Stees would be sentenced within 10 days.

The all-male jury deliberated nearly 10 hours before deciding that Stees hit his wife on the head with a crowbar, put over her head a plastic bag which asphyxiated her, placed the body in a steel drum and dropped it into nearby Dow Lake.

Stes' father was present in the jammed courtroom when the verdict was read but Helen's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Miles Taber, had returned to their Ashland home after testimony was completed Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Zantzinger forfeited $28 collateral when she failed to appear for a hearing Saturday morning before Municipal Court Judge Albert H. Blum.

She is scheduled to appear in court Monday with her husband to face the disorderly conduct charges.

Zantzinger is the son of Richard C. Zantzinger Sr. of West Hatton, Md. The elder Zantzinger is a former member of the Maryland Planning Commission and of the Maryland Legislature.

PRESTON, Md. (AP)—A blind man, Lloyd J. Newcombe, 53, was killed late Friday night when his small bungalow was burned to the ground.

A passing motorist saw the flames and notified the Preston Fire Department. But by the time firemen arrived, the one-story frame house was a mass of flames. Newcombe lived alone in the house. His body was found on the bathroom floor.

FBI agents arrested Richardson Friday night at a Baltimore department store where he was employed.

Consumer business sentiment is better than it has been in several years, the American Bankers Association said. Installment credit made good gains in 1962, the ABA said, paced by large auto sales and a steady rise in personal loans.

An Indiana high school teacher, William Garrison, led 15 of his students over snow-covered southern Illinois Sunday. Garrison's group is hiking the 240-mile route taken by George Rogers Clark, the Revolutionary War hero. The students spent the night in a barn—their first night out—and were two hours late resuming the march Sunday because of an alarm clock that failed to go off.

The boys have three pack horses loaded with food and camping equipment. Their Sunday night stop was to be at Beaumont, Ill., about 30 miles from their starting point Sunday morning.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Wilfred's mother is a domineering woman. I've tried to stay out of her way because she has a sharp tongue and a hot temper.

Last week we took our children to Granny's house. The two-year-old got hold of an ash tray and started to bang it on the floor. When I took it away from him he began to cry. Granny snatched the ash tray out of my hands and gave it to the child saying, "If he breaks it so what? It's only an ash tray."

I was irritated and replied, "I'm trying to teach the boy respect for property. He is MY child and I don't think you should interfere."

Granny shot back, "He's YOUR child, all right, but is he Wilfred?" We haven't had a brown-eyed blonde in our family for a hundred years."

My husband heard this and said nothing. I almost bawled. When we got home I told Wilfred he should have spoken up but he said, "She is my mother and I must always respect her."

Was he right or wrong to remain silent?—CRUSHED WIFE

DEAR WIFE: No husband should allow such a damaging remark to go unchallenged. It was unmanly of Wilfred to remain silent. Your husband's reply to his mother need not have been disrespectful. But a single sentence expressing complete confidence in you was clearly in order.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What are you trying to do—set females back 50 years?

I almost swallowed my gum when you told the girl who was planning to be married that she and her husband should own everything "jointly." You said, "The less thine and mine the better."

A husband is supposed to support his wife, isn't he? If not, what does she need him for?

I've been married five years. My salary is almost as big as my husband's. He doesn't see one penny of my check. He gives me $110 a week to run the house. He waved your stupid column under my nose and said, "See, this is what I've been trying to tell you."

He thinks we should pool our checks and put something away every month for our retirement. I say, "Nothing doing." I'm putting my money away for ME. He can take care of himself.

DUMB A FOX

DEAR DUMB FOX: I doubt that your husband married you to gloom on to your paycheck. He probably expected love, companionship and understanding. Your letter suggests he is getting nothing out of his marriage—and is paying $110 a week for it.

To borrow your phrase, "What did he need YOU for?"

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Six months ago my niece's engagement was announced. The wedding was set for March. We were all delighted. The young man came from a prominent family and all the prospects for a good life were present.

Several parties were given to honor the couple and my niece received some beautiful wedding gifts. Last week the mother of the bride-to-be wrote a cryptic three-line note to all members of the immediate family saying the engagement has been broken. This morning the gift we sent was returned.

No one has a clue as to why the wedding is off. It's insulting to be left totally in the dark and treated as if we were strangers. I feel they owe the family an explanation. Do you agree?

SLAPPED IN THE FACE

DEAR FACE: I do not. The reasons are none of your business. Inevitably, this is a painful experience for the young girl and her family, and if you want to make the ordeal more bearable, don't ask any questions.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

it would be foolish to persist in that direction. You have a good fit for the clubs and should show it.

The significant fact is that

A.—You have better than an opening bid and partner has opened which you should bid forthwith.

The prescribed call is six hearts.

If it develops that you haven't a sound play for it, it is suggested that your partner should not be per-

A.—This does not appear to be a propitious place for the hand to play. A rescue bid of one no trump is in order, in that it suggests to partner to rescue himself in either diamonds or clubs, whichever he prefers, since obviously you are short in spades and have length in

Your Skin Tells Tales When You're Tired

You skin may tell you—and the world—how tired you are, even before you feel the usual effects of fatigue in your bones, your muscles . . . and your mood.

Exercise: Now your face and head can do a little work on their own. Puff out your cheeks and pretend to whistle. Loosen your jaw muscles in exaggerated chewing movements. Repeat opening your mouth very wide and dropping your jaw.

Limp as a rag doll, roll your head around in a circle. Alternate turning your head to the far right and far left, while you hold your head still with your hands. Slowly bend your head back, then bring it forward to a normal position.

Sharing Cappy's Cake

WILLCOX, Ariz. (AP) — The Civil Air Patrol squadron received a birthday cake—but it wasn't the CAP's big day.

For five years, the cakes have come regularly from Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lundberg.

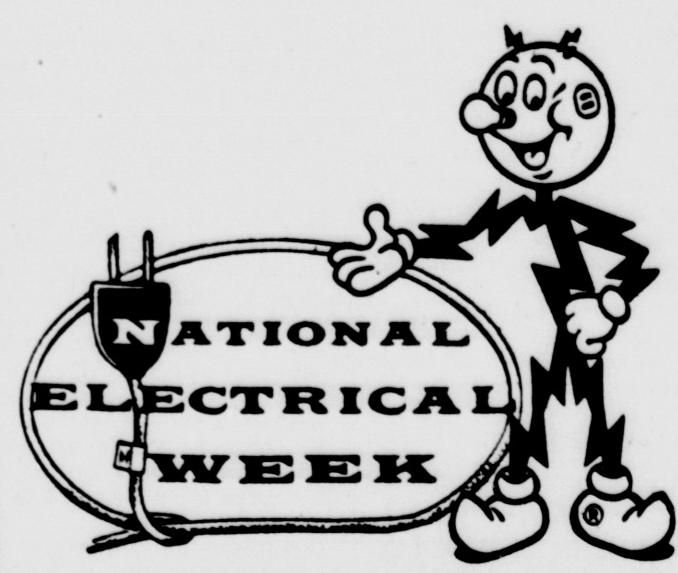

Their son Cappy was born in 1956, and for awhile it appeared neither the boy nor his mother would live. The CAP flew specialists and blood to Willcox, thus saving two lives.

3 Cakes On One Day

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The baby is new but the birthday is the same at the Albion McCann home.

The McCanns' new daughter was born Sept. 16. So was son Danny, now a year old, and a third child Chrissie, now 2.

The Boy Scouts Promote Fitness

Ordinarily, writing about the Boy Scouts of America is something like putting in a good word for the Flag, motherhood, or puppies. But the present 53d observance of Boy Scout Week — it began last Thursday and ends this Wednesday — is unusual enough to merit comment.

The Boy Scouts this year are using the theme "Strengthen America — Be Prepared — Be Fit," with the emphasis on physical fitness. Dr. W. W. Bauer, health education director of the American Medical Association, pointed out recently that the Boy Scouts "have been working quietly and effectively toward youth fitness a long time before the present interest in fitness started."

Indeed, the whole Scouting program involves fitness of one kind or another. The boys work on feats of skill and health achievements singly and in competition, from the Cub Scout program on up through the Explorer Scouts. The Explorers in particular emphasize such fitness programs as canoe trips, mountaineering, water sports and swimming meets.

The Scouts have a pretty good definition of all-around personal fitness in the constantly repeated Scout promise "to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

While wishing the Scouts and Scouters of Potomac Council well in their effort to promote physical fitness, we also invite attention to the other phrases of the Scout promise. In fact, the whole Scout code could stand some reviewing from time to time by adults who may feel they have "outgrown" such things. People don't outgrow the need to be fit, either physically or morally.

These Days

A Matter Of Definition

"Yes," said the student, "but Batista was corrupt." The statement, delivered with an air of assurance, was a variation on a familiar theme. Fifteen years ago it was Chiang Kai-shek who was "corrupt." And before it was the government of the Czar.

Well, one can hardly deny that the followers of Batista made a good thing for themselves out of Cuba, or that Chiang's officials had their methods of exacting "squeeze," or that Rasin had an unholy influence at the Russian Imperial court. But the truly interesting thing about the student's pronouncement on Batista was its implied narrow definition of the word "corruption."

In almost any older dictionary you will find that "corruption" means (a) decay, or (b) depravity, or (c) impurity, or (d) bribery. But modern political usage has pretty much eliminated the first, second and third meanings of the word. To the present-day student of political science, "corruption" means only one thing: it is what happens in capitalist countries when insiders use bribery or pressure to feather their own nests. It is never — or hardly ever — used to describe what happens in a nation once Marxist or totalitarian Statists of one sort or another get control of a government in the name of the "people."

The student who took off on the subject of Batista's

"corruption" was by no means a supporter of "Fidelism." But it had obviously never occurred to him that, under the older, wider definition of corruption, Castro is far more reprehensible than the dictator he has supplanted. When the Cuban Information Service reports that Castro's firing squads have killed 6,000 since last August, it is certainly "corruption" in the sense that it represents "depravity" and "impurity." That is, it represents "depravity" if the Mosiac injunction against murder has the same force as the other prohibition enumerated in the Ten Commandments. It also represents "decay," for the nation that can't handle political dissidents without killing them has suffered an egregious lapse from all civilized standards of debate.

In Mao Tse-tung's China, the corruption of bribery may no longer be an issue. But when peasant families are deprived of their bits of land and herded into agricultural communes, it certainly comes under the heading of theft. Again, this is corruption in the sense that it represents a decay of civilized standards. Moreover, Mao Tse-tung's government has not been sparing of human life. Artificially induced starvation is surely a form of murder, and this comes under the heading of "depravity" or "impurity."

The popular image of dictators like Castro and Mao Tse-tung is that, whatever else you may say about them, they are Puritanical when it comes to rejecting bribes. But so was that bloody monster of the French revolutionary epoch, Robespierre, who was called the "sea-green incorruptible" by Thomas Carlyle. Robespierre climbed to power over mountainous piles of corpses. He was just about as depraved and impure a political monster as the world has ever known. Thus he was "corrupt" in the wider, older meaning of the term, even though he may have been a Puritan when it came to money temptations. Castro and Mao Tse-tung are Robespierres of the modern age — and in comparison to them the "corrupt" Batista and the "corrupt" Chiang Kai-shek are almost lily-white.

In the annals of the Russian Revolution you will not find descriptions of a "corrupt" Stalin. Yet this man who robbed banks to raise money for the Communist revolutionary cause was corrupt under every meaning of the word. When he ordered the elimination of three million peasants in order to saddle the Soviet nation with a collectivized agriculture, he was acting in a "depraved" and "impure" manner. Corruption? The business stank to high heaven.

The moral is: let's not shrink the usage of perfectly good words. It keeps us from making valid moral and political judgements about a host of corrupt enemies who have sworn to bury us.

Bound To Happen

Will Powell Case Become A Political Scandal?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — "Equal opportunity" now has given way here to "preferential opportunity." A Negro Congressman who is chairman of the House Committee on Education and Labor is apparently being given favors that white citizens generally do not get.

Senator John J. Williams, Republican of Delaware, has just made a comprehensive report on the situation which was published in the "Congressional Record."

He charges that agencies of the government are "shoveling out the taxpayers' dollars" to Adam Clayton Powell, chairman of the all-important House Committee on Education and Labor, while Mr. Powell himself is "delinquent" in his federal income taxes for the years 1949 through 1955. The Delaware Senator made public a letter he had received from the Commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service listing a total of $13,000 as a "fraud penalty" imposed on Mr. Powell. Mr. Williams added:

"While the Treasury Department states that, as yet, it has not accepted a compromise for the settling of these taxes, find no evidence where the department is really trying to collect the money."

Senator Williams pointed out in his speech other favors or preferential opportunities allegedly given Representative Powell, and said:

"Notwithstanding this tax delinquency, three agencies of the government were vying with each other as to which could curry the most favor with Mr. Powell by opening the doors of the Federal Treasury."

"The State Department, with no strings attached, freely financed Mr. Powell's tour of the nightclubs in Europe."

"The Department of Health, Education and Welfare tapped a fund which had been approved by the Congress for the control of juvenile delinquency, and made an outright grant of $250,000 to a foundation which Mr. Powell and his administrative assistant, Mr. Wintner, had organized just eight days before the receipt of the gift."

The officials of this agency were not quite clear as to whether they thought Mr. Powell would spend this money in studying the juvenile delinquency problem or whether he would use it to organize a domestic Peace Corps in Harlem. There is one point on which they did agree — that the money would be spent at Mr. Powell's discretion, and apparently without any exercise of control by the federal government.

"The Housing and Home Finance Agency, the third government agency, was equally generous; it approved three loans totaling nearly $11 million to investigate just what the federal agencies did and what pressures, if any, were brought to bear and by whom to grant Mr. Powell the requests that he made for federal funds.

Before making his speech, Senator Williams wrote to all the federal agencies involved and received general information concerning the grants. In his address, Mr. Williams made this further comment:

"During the past 12 months various agencies of the government have been scrambling around to see who could give Mr. Powell the most favorable deal."

"I cite an example of Mr. Powell's influence with this administration under the Housing and Home Finance Agency. Long-term loans totaling nearly $11 million at interest rates as low as three and one-eighth per cent have been approved to Mr. Powell and his associates..."

"Not only were these loans sufficient to cover 100 per cent of the acquisition cost of the properties in question, but in one instance the loan approval was for exactly double the acquisition price."

"This is something which will certainly cause an arching of eyebrows among those citizens who have applied for loans but have not been given more than the acquisition price. The real point is not whether any fault lies with an applicant who seeks to get all he can, but whether the federal agencies — anxious to 'curry favor' with Chairman Powell, for instance, as Senator Williams describes it, have overstepped the bounds of propriety. Political scandals in past administrations have proved injurious at the polls to the party in power."

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

ART SHOW — The Mona Lisa no longer is on display in Washington, but other art shows can be found in unlikely places. There's the office of Sen. Phillip Hart, of Michigan, for instance.

Some 20 paintings, mostly landscapes done in primitive style, are currently to be seen on the walls of Hart's Senate office. They are the work of Mrs. Caryl Hayes, a Detroit artist who, while somewhat younger than the late Grandma Moses, can be classified as a grandmother in art circles.

Mrs. Hayes began painting only six years ago, but she's Hart's favorite grandmother artist and he wants those who enter his office to know that Detroit produces culture as well as motor cars.

Nothing has been firmed up, but when the term of the current exhibition expires — some four weeks — Hart doubtless will find that other Michigan artists will offer examples of their work for display. And politics being what it is, Hart undoubtedly will have to accept some of the offers.

Some other Senators who have a different concept of how a Senator's office should be decorated shudder to think of what can happen if word gets around that Capitol Hill is a good place for an artist to hold a one-man show.

Aftermath Of The Thalidomide Tragedy

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

600 prosthetic and orthotic (brace) shops.

Dr. Charles H. Frantz of Grand Rapids, Mich., was sent to Germany by the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults to study the problem. He reported in the Illinois Medical Journal that physicians and technicians have been specializing in fitting children with prostheses for many years.

But the phocomelic extremities often are no more than small flippers, which means there is little to which an artificial arm or leg can be attached. In addition, the flippers do not have enough power to activate or move the prosthesis.

The Germans are using plastic shoulder caps that fit over the shoulders to support the upper section and belt bands or thigh straps are employed for the legs. Cables are anchored to these devices, and by certain manipulations, the parts can be moved. But it is too difficult and an outside source of power is being substituted. This comes from carbon dioxide gas under pressure which is held in a small tank carried on a sling.

Small plastic tubes lead to pressure control valves that operate the elbow and hand. The most difficult are children with involvement of all four extremities. They cannot get about unless they have arms good enough to manage crutches. Meanwhile, the surgeons are busy correcting defects elsewhere in the body of these unfortunate babies. What these children will be like in five years from now is not known.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Several years after she had married Charles MacArthur, stage star Helen Hayes announced to him and their young son James that she had secretly been taking cooking lessons, and proposed to cook dinner for them that very evening. "If I spoil it," she ordered. "I don't want to hear a word from either of you. We'll just get up from the table, without comment, and go to a restaurant for dinner."

A short time later, she entered the dining room, bearing aloft the first steak she ever had cooked. Mr. MacArthur and son Jamie were sitting in silence at the table — with their hats and coats on.

Powell Vacated Among Palms While His Committee Wrangled

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — When Congressman Adam Clayton Powell opened the aid-to-education hearings last week, then immediately sneaked off to Puerto Rico, the wrangling Congressmen he left behind had no idea where to reach him.

This column can reveal, however, that he has been lounging on the seashore in his own two-acre Garden of Eden near Cerro Gordo, Dorado.

He wrangled the paradoxical plot from the Puerto Rican government which expropriated it from a 65-year-old farmer to accommodate the handsome Harlem congressman.

Ordinarily, private property isn't supposed to be condemned except for public use. Yet the territorial government seized a small grapefruit farm of Jacinto Nevares Cordova, and turned two of the five acres over to Powell.

The old farmer and his family had lived on the farm for 45 years, selling their fruit to a grapefruit juice plant in nearby Bayamon. He was told that the government needed his land for a resort and was paid an arbitrary $27,000 price set by the government.

Now the choicest stretch of seashore has been sold to Powell for a reported $10,000 as his private resort. In farmer Nevares Cordova's grapefruit patch, the playboy Congressman has now built a $50,000 winter home.

He has told neighbors that he intends to retire from Congress next year and settle down permanently under the Caribbean sun. His glamorous wife already spends her full time in Puerto Rico, although she draws a $12,000 salary from the taxpayers as Powell's secretary.

While he relaxes in his private paradise among the palms, his colleagues on the House Education and Labor Committee are floundering in a parliamentary muddle without their chairman.

As for hapless Nevares Cordova, he has complained to the government about his fond farm and has demanded at least a higher compensation price.

I asked Puerto Rico's progressive Governor Luis Munoz Marin how Congressman Powell happened to get two acres of valuable seashore property that had been seized by the government from someone else. I got no comment.

Blind Sensors

Sometimes Senators, like other people, can't see the trees for the leaves. Perhaps Senators Ken Keating, R. N. Y., Henry Jackson, D-Wash., and Stuart Symington, D-Mo., leaders of the preventive war school regarding Cuba, should take a look at some of the trees instead of the leaves around Cuba. The trees consist of hard figures readily available at the Pentagon.

They are not classified and would give an interesting comparison of U. S. strength against the fairly accurately measured strength of Russian forces on Cuba. Here they are:

Russian manpower on Cuba is reported by the Pentagon at 17,000 men; by Senator Keating at 22,000. U. S. armed manpower is 932,573 in the Army: 188,134 in the Marines: 662,370 in the Navy, and 364,900 in the Air Force, total 2,767,977.

Russian naval strength in Cuba is ten patrol boats. U. S. naval strength is a total of 868 combat ships.

Russian air strength in Cuba is 100 MIG fighters. U. S. air strength is 13,000 combat planes; plus 4,000 non-combat planes for transport and junketing Congressmen et al; plus 7,000 Army planes; plus 6,000 Navy planes. Total 30,000 planes.

Next morning, President Kennedy phoned the State Department to ask who had been responsible for the statement. He was not happy. The answer was: "It came from you."

Floating Museum Will Visit 20 W. Va. Cities

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The steamboat Omar, now being remodeled at the Marietta Manufacturing Co. shipyards at Pt. Pleasant into a Centennial showboat and floating museum, will visit 20 West Virginia cities, according to tentative plans announced Sunday by the Centennial Commission.

Executive Director Carl L. Sullivan said the Omar will visit all 17 counties bordering on the Ohio, Kanawha and Monongahela rivers this summer, with a side trip planned to Pittsburgh, Pa.

The showboat, Sullivan said, will serve the two-fold purpose of bringing "back some of the romance of the river era and of focusing attention on the importance of water transportation in West Virginia's economy."

Badminton Club Proves Popular

FROSTBURG — The Frostburg Badminton Club which meets each Monday at Beall High School to play at 8 p. m. has attracted players from LaVale, Cumberland and the surrounding area, according to Mrs. Martha Race, president.

All persons of the area are welcome to attend, but must wear sneakers or suitable gym slippers.

Mrs. Race announces that a social committee will be appointed at this week's meeting to plan for a party to be held in the near future.

Walking hand in hand, Mr. and Mrs. Dubi, aged 72 and 67 respectively, head toward their new home at Fresno's Senior Citizens Village.

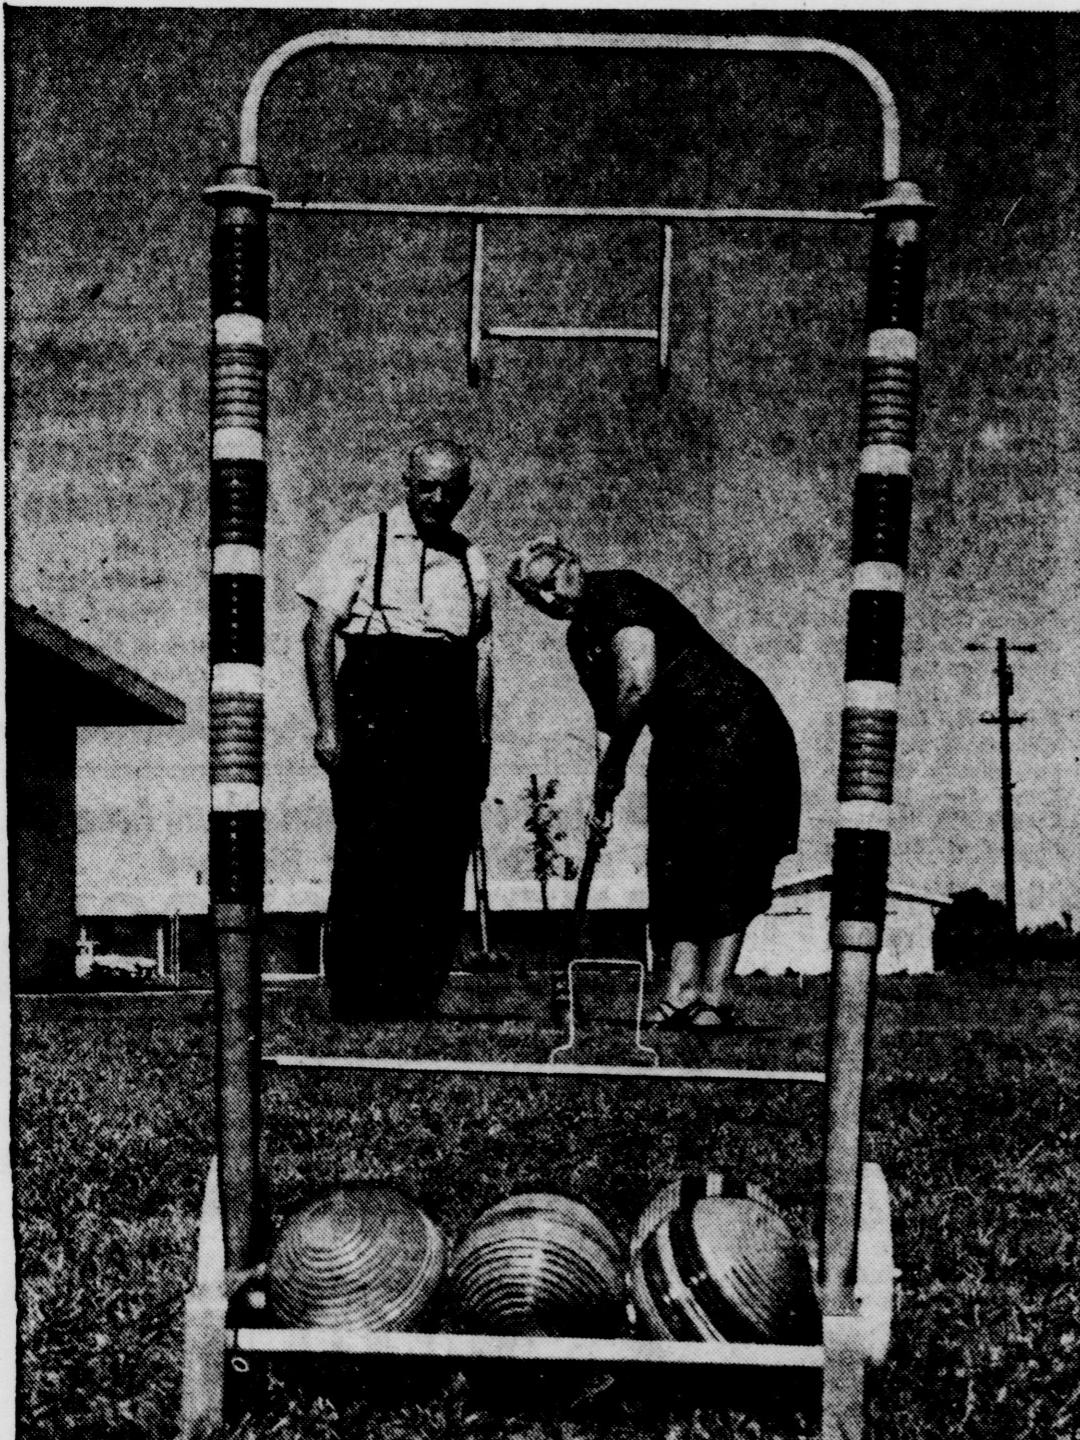

Strolling through the village grounds, the Dubis and another resident, stop alongside the village fountain.

RETIREMENT VILLAGE FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

The Dubis find among their various recreations that a game of croquet, furnished by the Village's recreation department, is quite enjoyable.

This is a wonderful place. I can't think of any place I'd rather be," says Mrs. Otto Dubi, one of the early residents of the newly-built Senior Citizens Village, located on the southeastern outskirts of Fresno, Calif.

Mrs. Dubi and her 72-year-old husband moved to the village from Hayward, Calif., last spring.

The village is a brain-child of George McLain and the California League of Senior Citizens which he heads. It is one of the first low-rent housing developments for elderly persons. It also is among the first projects financed with a federal loan. It covers 42 acres and was built at a cost of $4.5 million.

The 557 apartments rent from $70 to a little over $100, depending on size and furnishings. There is room for 1,000, although about 400 are there now.

There are 81 flat-roofed ranch style cement block buildings in the village. Each has six to eight apartments and a central laundry room with a washer and dryer.

The Dubis pay $80.50 per month for their one-bedroom unit. The price includes water, disposal, gas and electricity.

The hub of the little community is the Village Center—a complex with offices, recreation area, cafeteria and grocery store. Future plans call for a beauty and barber shop, dentists' and physicians' offices and a pharmacy.

The village has a bus, too—an electric-driven tram operated by village residents who volunteer as drivers.

There are no stairs, just ramps, doors are wider than usual.

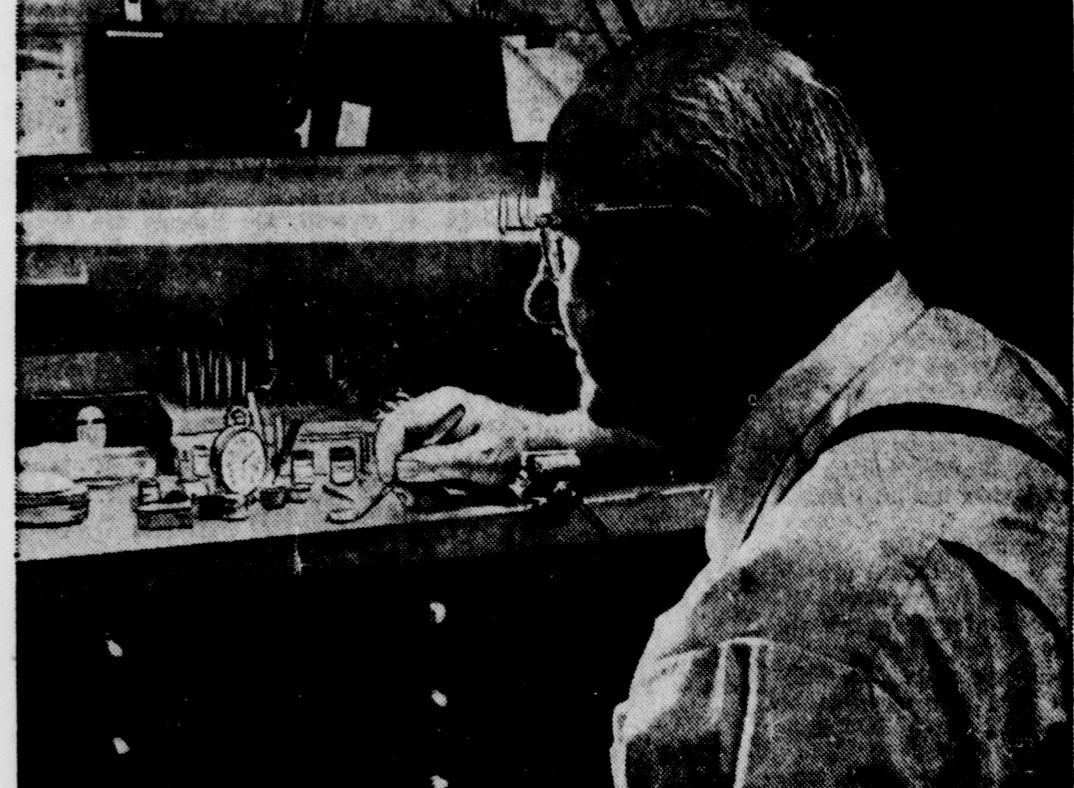

"This is it for me," says Mrs. Dubi. "This is the perfect place for Dad and me to spend the rest of our lives."

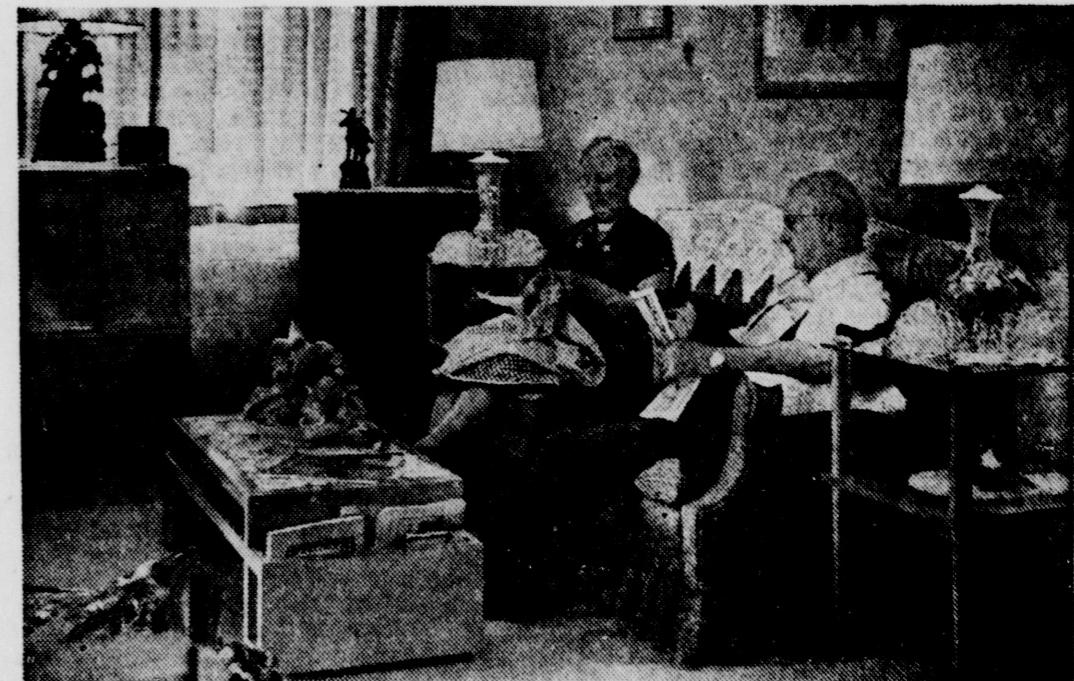

Mrs. Dubi takes clothes from the washer-dryer that goes with each apartment in the village.

The Dubis ride home from the Village grocery store in an electric-driven tram. The operator is a volunteer, 82-year-old Bert Cargo, a resident of the village.

Mr. Dubi, a retired watchmaker, does some watch repair work for his neighbors in the tiny shop he built in a closet of his apartment.

In a quiet after-dinner scene in the spacious living room of their apartment. Mrs. Dubi sews and Mr. Dubi reads his evening paper.

Brumel, Snell And Boston Are Upset Victims At Los Angeles

John Thomas Beats Russian High Jumper

Grelle Trims Snell,
Sternberg Defeats
Top Pole Vaulters

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)—No records were set, but there were plenty of upsets and excitement in the fourth annual Los Angeles Times Games.

The sellout crowd of 13,495 track and field fans in the sports arena Saturday night saw:

America's foremost high jump champion, John Thomas of Boston, defeat the king of the leapers, Russia's Valeriy Brumel, for the first time in eight attempts.

Tenacious Jim Grelle of Los Angeles hand Peter Snell of New Zealand, world outdoor mile record holder, his first setback since February 1961.

Igor Ter-Ovanesyan of Russia pin a loss for the second straight week, after eight failures, on lanky Ralph Boston, now of Los Angeles, in the broad jump.

And—in some ways the most surprising of all—a victory in the pole vault by Brian Sternberg, a 19-year-old sophomore from the University of Washington.

Sternberg Surprises

Sternberg, scaling the 16-foot ceiling for the first time with 16', left behind John Rose, Arizona State University, and such celebrated 16-foot vaulters as C.K. Yang, Dave Tork and John Uelles.

Thomas won the high jump at 7 feet 1/4 inch on fewer misses after both he and Brumel had struggled rather painfully to clear the bar from as low, for them, 6'8.

"I feel more relaxed this year than ever before," said Thomas, plainly given a morale boost by the victory.

Brumel had nothing to say. He seemingly just disappeared after congratulating Thomas.

Boston, America's 1960 Olympic broad jump champion, waged a seesaw duel with Ter-Ovanesyan before losing, 26 feet 3 inches to 26'1 1/2.

The margin was the fractional distance of a foul Boston had on his final jump, which unofficially was 26'5.

"It won't happen again," said Boston, promising to resume his winning ways over the Ter.

Grelle Voted Best

Grelle, 26, of the Los Angeles Track Club, was voted the meet's outstanding athlete. But actually his first place over 24-year-old snell was not too surprising.

The New Zealander's regular summer season is over and he does not like board running anyhow.

Even Grelle said that while this was "a great personal achievement" he was not running "against the Peter Snell who ran last year."

The winning time was 4:04.7 to Snell's 4:06.4.

It did not threaten the National Indoor and meet record of 3:58.9 set a year ago by Jim Beatty, Grelle's teammate, who was an interested spectator at the meet.

Japanese Team Begins Training At Tigertown

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI)—Spring training took on an international touch Sunday when the Hanshin Tigers, one of the top baseball teams in Japan, began working out at Tigertown, the training base of the Detroit Tigers.

The visitors from the Far East, champions of the Japanese Central League, will train in Florida until Feb. 26 as guests of the Tigers.

They came equipped with all of the comforts of home, including an electric rice cooker, instant noodles, a bag of seaweed, 100 sets of chopsticks and manager Sadayoshi Fujimoto, who speaks English about as well as Casey Stengel.

The Japanese team, looking like broadshouldered little leaguers, went through a 90-minute batting drill under blue skies and a bright sun.

When they left home it was snowing and their town of Mishinomya, near Osaka, was periled by avalanches.

The players showed surprising spirit throughout the workout and little effects of their 36-hour trip from Japan.

Fort Ashby, Romney And Petersburg Cop Junior High Wins

SEIZO Noda, a Japanese capitalist who owns the Hanshin Tigers, is footloose a bill of about $50,000 for his team's transportation while the Detroit Tigers are supplying meals, lodgings and instruction during the team's visit to Florida.

The Detroit baseball company invited the Hanshin team to train at Tigertown as a reciprocal gesture following the Tigers' tour of the Orient last fall.

Even Grelle said that while this was "a great personal achievement" he was not running "against the Peter Snell who ran last year."

The winning time was 4:04.7 to Snell's 4:06.4.

State Employees To Make Pitch For Pay Raise

Senate Hearings Set This Week

By HERB THOMPSON
ANNAPOLIS, (AP)—State employees will make their pitch to the Maryland Legislature this week for pay raises backed by an increase in the state beer tax, plus a string of fringe benefits they are seeking.

The Senate Finance Committee has scheduled public hearings Tuesday and Wednesday on the bills. One batch, including the controversial beer tax proposal, was submitted by the Maryland Classified Employees Association. Another set is backed by the AFL-CIO American Federation of State County and Municipal Employees.

The legislation was introduced after Gov. Tawes had proposed in his budget salary adjustments for 10,400 of the 27,000 state employees and longevity payments for 6,200 others at a total cost of $4.2 million.

Want $10 Million Program

The State Employees Association countered with a $10 million program, which they proposed financing by adding 11 cents a gallon to the present 3 cents per gallon tax on beer, currently one of the lowest rates in the nation.

The salary plan would provide a $447 general increase for all workers and annual pay raises for seven years ranging from $464.88 to $581.10.

The beer tax has been considered a sore point with the Tawes Administration because one of his closest advisers, George Hocker, is a long time representative of brewers. Any proposal to raise the levy has become known as a "Hocker Rocker."

Other bills to be aired Tuesday include one to compensate all state employees except per diem and hourly workers time and a half for overtime and provide a 10 per cent night differential for those working beyond 6 p.m.

Hearings Scheduled

On Wednesday the committee will hear testimony on the bills backed by the labor union which is seeking to gain larger representation of employees. They provide for binding arbitration on employee grievances, overtime compensation, group life and hospitalization insurance, liberalized sick leave benefits and representation of the union on the State Standard Salary Board.

Other major public hearings during the week include: A $1.25 per hour minimum wage requirement for Maryland, before the House Labor Committee on Tuesday; and regulation of credit charges on installment sales, before the Senate Banking Committee next Friday.

The Tawes Administration's bill to abolish slot machines, which is expected to provide the hottest controversy of the 90-day session, is expected to be available from the attorney general late in the week for introduction.

Snow And Freezing Rain Glaze Tops Of Mountains Plan Hearings

Drivers on Western Maryland highways were being advised last night to exercise caution as ice began to appear in a number of high spots.

Three State Roads Commission crews were dispatched after 9 p.m. one to scatter chemicals and abrasives west of Frostburg, one east of Cumberland and the third in Washington County.

The crews were sent out after District 6 headquarters received reports that it was snowing on Big Savage Mountain, icing on spots on Garrett County highways and that snow and rain was falling on the top of Sideling Hill Mountain.

No trouble was anticipated unless the temperature dropped. At 9:30 p.m. it was 40 above on Town Hill, 30 on Big Savage and 34 in Frostburg and at the LaVale SRC headquarters.

Up to two inches of snow fell in the Cumberland area Saturday but Cumberland escaped with about an inch of snow. Virtually all of the new snow disappeared here yesterday.

He was admitted to the Meyersdale hospital with head injuries.

Buffalo Mills Man Dies Of Crash Injuries

William Samuel Fleming, 64, of RD 1, Buffalo Mills, died last evening in Meyersdale Community Hospital of injuries he received in a one-car accident Saturday.

Bedford State Police said Mr. Fleming was driving alone west on Route 31 in Juniata Township when he lost control of the vehicle on an icy patch on the highway.

The car hit a guard post, then struck a concrete abutment. The accident occurred about 3 p.m. Saturday.

He was admitted to the Meyersdale hospital with head injuries.

Man Is Released

The sheriff's office reported last night that Robert Steele, Route 1, Ridgeley, was released yesterday from Memorial Hospital after treatment for cuts on the neck and throat.

Officials said the man was taken to Sylvan Retreat following treatment for the self-inflicted wounds.

Steele was arrested by city police Wednesday night after he broke two plate glass windows and was charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct, but was transferred to the county jail while officials were considering having him readmitted to Perry Point Hospital.
